Oriental Grass 1 Square Foot (114)

PROBABLY Morning Light Miscanthus. Grows 7 feet tall and creates seed tufts beginning in the end of August. Very good for erosion control and does not mind poor soil or leaf litter. Deer will NOT eat it. Birds enjoy the ripe seeds in January. Great as a windbreak, privacy screen, or summertime barrier. It is tolerant of being transplanted (I have done it before.) A pot of this stuff sells for up to $14 per pot at nurseries. The seeds will sprout in a sunny area, but not so often as regular lawn grass or as often as butterfly bush seeds. Birds seem to eat the ripe seeds in January.

I will deliver the plants to the church or to other locations as long as I don't need 4 wheel drive to get there. Can transplant with the top growth or cut that off and just transplant the root ball. (I am not offering to plant the grass, just dig it up and deliver it. If you want me to plant it then give me a call and we'll work something out.) Root ball only after January and wait until the ground thaws. The plants a
